Alice normally had no need to contemplate life or what it meant. She decided that she needed some assistance with getting to the root of her issues, so she jumped through the looking glass.

One day Alice woke up in an odd mood. She felt like her life had no real meaning, and that everything she knew seemed so superficial.

"Hello Caterpillar", said Alice, "I need to do some soul searching but I am unable to unwind and let my mind wander".

"You complain your life seems so defective...
Instead you need to learn to be introspective."
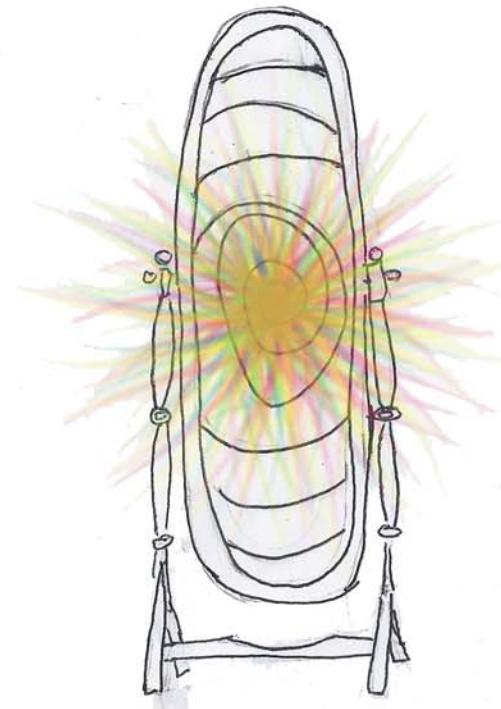

Once through the looking glass Alice went searching for her old friend Caterpillar. He was very intelligent and always helped Alice open her mind and think outside the box.

"But How?!?"
asked Alice

"You wear that dress, In an attempt to impress."
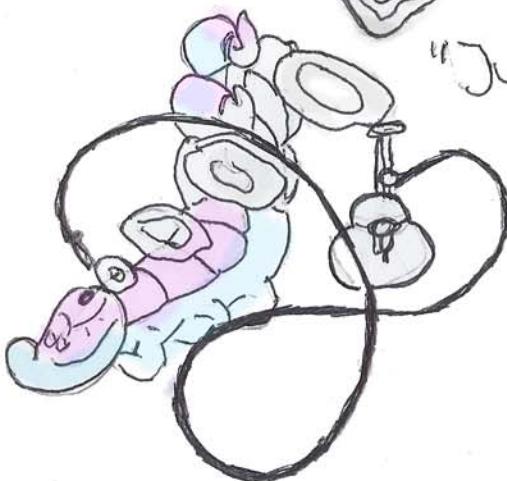

Levis

"Just put on some Levi's slacks, they will help you relax."
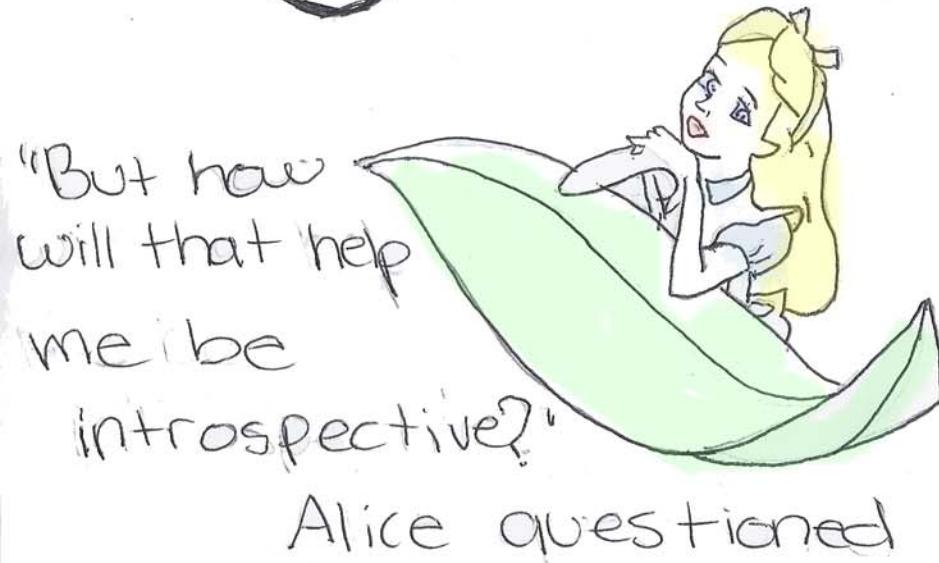

"But how will that help me be introspective?"

Alice questioned

"Since they feel like your skin, You're free to search deep within."

Caterpillar said with a smile

"Oh so if I feel comfortable in my own skin; and dress not just to impress, then I will be able to expand my thinking?"

"Seems stupid, but ok..."

Alice mumbled.

Once home Alice got some Levi's jeans and was shocked to discover that the jeans were amazing!*

She was able to chill comfortably while still looking HOT!

Finally she was able to reflect on her life.